

ABSTRACT

A vertebral prosthesis is adapted to be implanted adjacent a spinal disc prosthesis. According to one embodiment, the vertebral prosthesis includes a shaft and an endplate coupled to one end of the shaft. The endplate is adapted to be 5 implanted adjacent a disc prosthesis, thereby obviating the need to fuse the endplate to an adjacent vertebral body.